Languages: Italian and English

Davide Ponzini received his PhD (cum laude) in Urban Planning from Politecnico di Milano, where he is currently Associate Professor of Urban Planning and the Rector's Delegate for International Relations with the Middle East. Also, he is the director of the TAU-Lab research unit. His research activity focuses on planning theory, urban and cultural policy, architectural design and heritage preservation. In 2004 he was Research Affiliate at Yale University, in 2006 International Fellow in Urban Studies at Johns Hopkins University, in 2008 Visiting Scholar at Columbia University, in 2010 Visiting Researcher at Sciences Po, Paris, in 2017 Visiting Professor at the Technical University of Munich.

He has been the recipient of several scholarships, research grants, and awards issued by universities, foundations and public institutions (International Society of City and Regional Planners, International Academy of Architecture, European Cultural Foundation and Riksbankens Jubileumsfond, Agnelli Foundation and UniCredit Private Banking, and others). He has been the director and co-director of research projects among which the Learning from Gulf Cities initiative (with Harvey Molotch) regarding urbanization in the Arabian Peninsula. Currently he is the Research Leader of the JPI Cultural Heritage research project HOME – Heritage Opportunities/threats within Mega-Events in Europe. Also, he has been a panel member or referee in a number of national and international research bodies (ERC-European Research Council, EU HERA, FWO Research Foundation of Flanders, and others). He has been an advisor of both urban and cultural policy to local and national governments and other public and private entities. Recently he has been a Member of the Advisory Panel for the 2040 City Plan of Dubai, UAE.

Besides teaching at Politecnico di Milano, he has held lectures, seminars and workshops in Europe and North America (AA-Architectural Association of London, TU Delft, TU Munich, KU Leuven, London School of Economics, CCA, Columbia University, Johns Hopkins, Yale, MIT, and others).

His research work has been published in international scientific journals (Cities, Urban Studies, Planning Theory and Practice, European Planning Studies, Environment and Planning C and others) and in edited books. His publications are widely cited and used as reference for education in European and American universities. He occasionally contributes to policy, architecture and planning magazines (The Atlantic/CityLab, Domus, Abitare, and others).

He has published ten books. Coauthor (with the photographer Michele Nastasi) of the book: Starchitecture. Scenes, Actors and Spectacles in Contemporary Cities (Silver Medal of the 2015 World Triennial of Architecture; second edition 2016, Monacelli Press); co-editor (with Harvey Molotch) of the book: The New Arab Urban: Gulf Cities of Wealth, Ambition, and Distress (New York University Press, 2019). His latest authored book is titled: Transnational Architecture and Urbanism: Rethinking How Cities Plan, Transform, and Learn (ISOCARP 2020 Gerd Albers Award for the best book; Routledge, 2020).
